HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

Labor with what zeal we will,
Something still remains undone;
Something, uncompleted still,
Waits the rising of the sun.

By the bedside, on the stair,
At the threshold, near the gates,
With its menace or its prayer,
Like a mendicant it waits.

Waits, and will not go away—
Waits, and will not be gainsayed.
By the cares of yesterday
Each to-day is heavier made,

Till at length it is, or seems,
Greater than our strength can bear,—
As the burden of our dreams,
Pressing on us everywhere!

And we stand from day to day
Like the dwarfs of times gone by,
Who, as Northern legends say,
On their shoulders held the sky.

An Old Man's Story.

I am an old man; and yet it seems a very short time since I climbed the tall poplar tree that grew before the Vicarage, in search of the starling's nest. I can fancy I hear the shout that greeted my descent with the long-coveted prize, and feel again the crimson mounting to my cheeks as it did when, turning to the Vicarage, I saw an expression of pain on the pale face of my father as he stood at the study window.

It seems to me but yesterday since I stood in the centre of that group of lads, and now—

"They are all gone, the old familiar faces."

Dick, the Surgeon's son died many years ago in India. Harvey Vernon, the bravest of them all was slain on the field of Watterloo; and when the village bells rang for the victory, the rudest fellow in the village was touched as he passed the Grange and saw the blinds down, and knew of the breaking heart of old Widow Vernon.

It was a sad day for us at the Vicarage, especially for Emily. My father stayed in his library all day; though I do not think he read a page in any of his books—even in his favorites, Sopocles and Horace.

Emily and my mother were in my mother's chamber all day. From that day Emily gradually drooped and faded. Her beautiful face grew more exquisitely beautiful—her dark, deep eyes became more full and lustrous, but they wandered restlessly, as though seeking some missing resting place; her golden hair (I have still a thick lock of it amongst an old man's memories of other days, "the days of auld lang syne,") hung more carelessly about her shoulders, and her pale cheeks were suffused with a rosy tint that gradually deepened into a burning crimson, while her sweet voice sank almost into a whisper. As I looked at her, her startled beauty reminded me of the book my mother used to read to her as she lay on the couch in the drawing-room. Her "face was as the face of an angel."

Ah, me! how I am wandering from the circumstances I sat down to write about; but you must forgive an old man, for whenever I think of Emily it is always so. Let me see—yes, I remember perfectly.

It was Christmas Eve, in the year 1791, and the snow had been falling heavily all day, blotting out the hedges and walls that surrounded the Vicarage, and burying the sun dial that Willie and I had carved with great pains during the long winter evenings.

I had come from my father's study, where I and Willie had been having our usual lesson in Latin. Willie was a high spirited lad of a very loving and affectionate disposition; though when excited, or in a passion, his temper was fearful to behold, and his eyes flashed with a strange light that made us all tremble except my father. It was some time before my father came down; but when he did, we heard him lock the study door after him, and he came down alone. He looked stern and angry; he was in one of those moods which sometimes took possession of him when he was disturbed. Though my father was always silent when in these moods, yet I always thought there was a vivid resemblance between them and Willie's outbreakings of passion.

"Willie will not come down to-night," said he, "I have left him in the study with a lesson that will keep him all night."

I thought I saw a tear start from my mother's eye, as she turned her pale face to the window and looked out upon the snow, which continued to fall heavily. It was the anniversary of Emily's birthday, and we were expecting a party of young friends, (children of the neighboring gentry) to pass the evening at the Vicarage.

It began to grow dark about four o'clock, and then our company began to arrive. There were first the children of Squire Harcourt, who came wrapped in soft furs and shawls, in the old-fashioned cozy family carriage with its couple of docile grows. Then came Harry Vernon, and his sisters Emily and Agnes; and as the time wore on about a score of young people were assembled at the Vicarage. It was a merry party. My father, whom it would be an injustice to represent as an unkind man, threw himself into the spirit of our merriment as though he had been one of us. The furniture, excepting the old fashioned piano, had been removed, and the drawing-rooms had, by the removal of a partition, been thrown into one, making a large and commodious room, which had been plentifully hung with holly and other evergreens. The red berries gleamed like tiny masses of fire beneath the dark green, and here and there my sister's hand had gracefully arranged bunches of many colored ribbons.

Many inquiries were made for Willie, and for a moment or two a shadow seemed cast upon the pleasure of the children, when they were told that Willie, the presiding spirit of fun in every juvenile party, would not be with them; but all feeling of disappointment vanished as the time wore on, except from one gentle, loving spirit.

I knew that my mother was thinking of the dear boy in the room above us, for Willie was my mother's favorite. She was thinking of a handsome face pressed against the door, and of a tiny ear close to the key hole, listening to the voices of the merry groups below. She knew how that quick, eager spirit would fret in the study above like a wild bird in a cage.

Sometimes I saw her whisper to my father—and then his face grew hard and dark, and my mother's yet more sad and pained.

My sister played, with exceeding grace, some simple airs on the old piano; and then, the boys choosing their partners from the graceful little maidens, who stood with eager, blushing faces and beseeching eyes beneath the holly in a corner of the room, the dance began. Whilst this was going on I saw my father put something into my mother's hand. It was the study key. With a grateful smile—oh! how sweet that smile was!—she left the room. I stole after her to the foot of the wide, old fashioned staircase; I saw her glide swiftly up the stairs; and I could hear when she unlocked the door; and when she opened it to pass in, the moonlight streamed brightly through the doorway on to the dark landing, and, as it fell on the face of the old clock which stood there, I saw it wanted a few minutes of ten o'clock.

I had not stood more than a minute at the foot of the stairs, when I heard my mother cry—"Willie!" Then I heard a piercing scream, and she suddenly passed me, her face white as the snow that lay outside on the steps, rushing into the room where my father was playing with the children, went straight up to him, and crying, 'Willie's gone! oh, Willie, Willie, darling!' fell fainting at his feet.

My sister immediately left the piano, and, with the aid of some cold water, my mother was restored very soon. Of course this put an end to the festivities, and the children were soon on their way home, except Harry Vernon, who stayed to assist in the search for Willie. Afterwards my mother told us, that, as she was endeavoring to amuse the group of younger children, she heard Willie's voice distinctly calling, "Mamma! mamma!" She instantly got the key, as I before related, and went up into the study. As soon as she opened the door she felt that the window was open by the rushing of the cold frosty air past her. The instant she entered the room she felt a tremor seize her. Why did not Willie spring to meet her? She felt in a moment that he was not there. The study lamp was flickering out; there stood my father's easy chair opposite a table on which lay his books and manuscripts, and amongst them poor Willie's soiled and hated Latin Grammer.

He must have climbed down the side of the house by the aid of the ivy stems which grew up to the pinnacles of the gables on the top of the antique portico, and from thence have leaped to the ground. Willie, agile as a squirrel, could easily have accomplished this.

In a few moments from the discovery of Willie's absence, we—that is, my mother and father, Harry and myself, and two of the servants, one of them old Walter, who passionately loved Willie—were out in search of the missing one.

The snow was still falling heavily, but by the light of the moon, which although behind the clouds, was at full, we could see almost as distinctly as by daylight.

Strange to say, my mother went instinctly towards a deep pool of water, beneath the orchard wall, called by the villagers the Black Pool—so called because of its depth. Near it, and overshadowing it, grew an old, gnarled thorn bush, which, after many winter's frosts and snows, still preserved its vitality. It was a pleasant place in summer; the broad, fan like ferns, with their beautiful serarted leaves, loved to grow there, and in that old thorn, a summer or two before a nightingale had made its haunt, and sung through the long, star-lit nights, and Willie and I had laid awake for hours listening to it.

I can never now hear the song of the nightingale without thinking of my darling brother and the chamber in which he slept. The villagers said it was haunted by something more than the nightingale, but that I never positively knew.

Well, I saw my mother bent close down to the water a moment, and then suddenly turn and pick something up from the ground at the foot of the thorn bush. She held it out a moment in the moonlight, and then gave a wild cry of pain. It was a little handkerchief of Willie's edged with a peculiar kind of lace which she had put on herself. The water was still and ripplelless—save a slight tremor, which might be caused by the breeze—and reflected the quiet stars in its dark face.

My father, who was a good swimmer and a stranger to fear, quietly took off his coat, and in a moment was down at the bottom of the pool. Her large dark eyes had something awful in the intensity of their gaze; her thin white hands were clasped convulsively upon her bosom; her lips were drawn tightly across her small teeth, and we could hear her breathe as though she had been running rapidly.

It seemed an age before my father reappeared; but when he did, it was with Willie's pale, handsome face, looking more beautiful than ever, lying on his shoulders, and his long dark hair, which it always seemed a shame to cut, falling over his arm. I think I hear my mother's wild, despairing cry now, at the distance of seven years. I have heard it at night in my quiet study; I have heard it on board ship, when the storm winds have thrown us like a feather among the frothing waves; I have heard it in old continental cathedrals, above the voices of the choir, the music of the organ, and the ringing and the clashing of the bells.

Hush! I thought I heard it then! My father carried Willie home, and old Walter and the other servant assisted my mother. Willie was instantly got to bed, and the ordinary means used for his restoration, while a servant was sent for the doctor. In a short time the doctor arrived.

My mother was bending over Willie, and nervously swaying herself backward and forward, when he came in; but she arose immediately, and with wild, flashing eyes, exclaimed:

"Oh! doctor, save my boy! Oh! Willie, Willie, darling! speak to me, my child!"

I never read David's thrilling lament, "Oh! Absalom! my son, Absalom! without thinking of my mother's great agony in Willie's chamber.

The doctor was a remarkably skillful man: but it seemed a hopeless case. How my mother's eagar eyes followed all his movements.

At last when we were just despairing, Willie gently opened his eyes—those magnificent eyes of his! There was an unmistakable ecstacy on my mother's face, the like of which I have never seen since, and never expect to see again. It was coming light when the doctor left us, and Willie was in a refreshing sleep.

The many colored rainbow of hope now hung over the vicarage, alas! soon to fade away, leaving us but the cold rain and dark clouds of a great sorrow.

After an hour or two of sleep, Willie awoke, and told my mother how he heard the shouts and laughter of the children in the drawing room, and how the music seemed to taunt him; and how he became afraid, and dared not look where the shadows lay in the library; and how he watched the moon rise through the poplars before the window, he was tempted to climb down the ivy stems; and how he had wandered to the Black Pool, and been tempted to spring across it to get a bunch of crimson berries that hung from a branch on the other side, thinking he would give them to her; and how he had missed his footing and fallen backwards into the pond. Then he told her how he rose to the surface—and how he was falling into a sweet and pleasant slumber at the bottom, with thoughts of her passing dream-like through his mind—and how he felt some hand touch him, and an exquisite sensation of pain as if he was dying, and that was all he knew.—How my mother wept and smiled, and clasped him, her darling Willie! I need not tell you how my poor father kissed him, and asked—aye, he the stern disciplinarian, asked—pardon of his own child. Willie, fatigued with his long talk, fell asleep again; but it was a troubled, broken slumber. His cheeks grow crimson, and his breath grew quick and hot, and he trembled as though he was very cold.

The doctor came again, but this time he shook his head and said there was no chance for him. My father and mother watched him night and day; but he grew worse and worse.—Now he would talk of the wild bees' nest he had found a few days ago in a bank in the wood—then he would shout as if at play; and then, whilst my father covered his face with his hands and the big tears trickled thro' his fingers in agony of grief, he would try to repeat his Latin, and failing to do so correctly, he would begin again, saying in beseeching tones, "Oh! papa, forgive me! I cannot!"

Willie died one morning, just as the old year was dying amidst frost and snow, repeating his Latin lesson, as my mother held his head, with its splendid dark hair locks on her bosom, and his little hand lay on my father's trembling palm.

Soldiers' Monument.

To the People of Huntingdon County.

A meeting was held at the Court House in Huntingdon, in pursuance of a general call, at which the undersigned were instructed, among other things, to urge the citizens of the several boroughs and townships of the County, to meet in HUNTINGDON, On Monday, the 14th day of August, '65. for the purpose of organizing an association to erect a monument to those who fell, in defense of Republican liberty, during the late rebellion. It is proposed that the names of every citizen of the county who fell, whether on the field of battle, or by the hand of disease, shall be inscribed upon the monument; all the details, including design and location, to be determined, when a sufficient sum of money shall have been raised by contributions.

It can scarcely be necessary that we should refer to the fitness of such a work; we are persuaded that there is no one among you who will not feel proud and glad to join in this undertaking—this work of gratitude to those whose devotion has secured to us the form of Republican freedom—this last office of grateful homage to the sublime heroism and patriotic fortitude which have preserved for us the spirit of human liberty.

We most earnestly urge upon you, that you see to it, that every community has a voice in the meeting on the 14th of August,—let the delegation from each township and borough be as large as possible. It will be necessary to appoint a local committee in each municipal sub-division, to canvass thoroughly for contributions; your representatives at the meeting should be prepared to report the names of energetic and earnest men and women to take charge of this duty. All your activity and ingenuity will be required to push the work successfully through. Every man and woman should take an active part—should devote his and her whole energy to the undertaking. It is necessary that you should organize in every township and borough—do so at once. Let us work, work, WORK, until the last penny shall have been secured; then we shall enjoy the proud satisfaction of rearing a monument which will be creditable alike to ourselves, and the purpose for which it is intended; but should we fail, having devoted less attention to the subject than its importance demands, and it can only be from such a cause, if we do fail, it will be a reproach, a burning reproach, upon us all.

Everywhere, all over the land, we hear shouts of welcome to the returning braves who have exchanged the duties of the camp and the field for the joys of home and the arts of peace; while in the midst of our rejoicings for the victory, while our hearts are glad for the return of our sons and brothers, who come to us, with "brows bound with victorious wreaths," let us remember those other hearts, filled with sadness, whose throbs echo the sound of no homeward footsteps—but the mournful cadence of the funeral march. While we greet the living, let us cherish the memory of the dead; let us raise a shaft to commemorate the heroic virtues of the fallen, from which the widows and orphans which the war has made, can gather the consolation that their husbands and fathers have not died in vain, but have builded for themselves a monument in the hearts of men, not of perishable stone, which shall endure until the record of the glorious achievements of the last four years shall have faded from the page of history.

INCOME TAX.

The following is the Income Tax paid by citizens of Huntingdon county for the year 1864. In order to ascertain the amount of income received by any person in the following list, it is only necessary to multiply the amount of tax by 20, and add $600 to the amount; but when the tax paid is more than $220, the amount of tax in excess of $220 should be multiplied by only 10:

CURE FOR DRUNKENNESS.—There is a famous prescription in use in England, for the cure of drunkenness, by which thousands are said to have been assisted in recovering themselves. The receipt came into notoriety through the efforts of John Vine Hall, commander of the Great Eastern steamship. He had fallen into such habitual drunkenness that his most earnest efforts to reclaim himself proved unavailing. At last he sought the advice of an eminent physician who gave him a prescription which he followed faithfully for seven months and at the end of that time had lost all desire for liquor, although he had been for many years led captive by a most debasing appetite. The receipt, which he afterwards published, and by which so many other drunkards have been assisted to re-form, is as follows: Sulphate of iron, five grains—magnesia, ten grains; peppermint water, eleven drachms; spirit of nutmeg, one drachm; twice a day. This preparation acts as a tonic and stimulant, and so partially supplies the place of the accustomed liquor, and prevents that absolute physical and moral prostration that follows a sudden breaking off from the use of stimulating drinks.

A CANDID OPINION.—A certain green customer, who was a stranger to mirrors, and who stepped into the cabin of one of our ocean steamers, stopping in front of a large pier glass which he took for a door, said:

"I say, mister, when does this here boat start?"

Getting no reply from the dumb reflection before him, he again repeated:

"I say, mister, when does this here boat start?"

Incensed at the still silent figure, he broke out:

"Go to thunder! you darned sassafras-colored block-headed bull-calf; you don't look as though you knew much anyhow."

The Yankee and the Soup.

"I sa'ay, waiter!" exclaimed a Yankee at one of our large hotels the other day, leaning back from over a plate of half-eaten soup—"I say, waiter this 'ere soup a'nt so clean as I have seen."

"Sir," exclaimed the waiter in very proper indignation, "I don't know what you means by such an insineration. I must go to Carvin-knife about that."

He accordingly goes off, and presently returns with the head waiter.

"Beg pardon, sir," said the latter. "Did you have the honor of making a remark respecting the soup?"

"Wall, I did," drawled the Yankee "A'n't no use denyin' that."

"Well, sir," replied the head waiter, looking red in the face, "shall I have the pleasure of saying to the superintendent that you say the soup is dirty?"

"Look here," continued the Yankee, throwing himself back in his chair, "you can report to the superintendent, if you've got such an officer over ye (I s'posed they had superintendents in Sunday schools, but never heard of one in a tavern afore),—you kin just say tew him I said to that linen-jacket feller ther; and mind, now, if you pervart the truth, I'll teach you that the gods of the heathing are a vain thing, in jest no time at all. Tell the superintendent what I said; but don't yer lie."

"Anything the matter here, Thomas?" asked the superintendent, coming up just then. "Anything wrong, sir?"

"He says the soup a'n't clean, sir?" exclaimed the waiter.

"That's a teetotal lie," exclaimed the Yankee. I didn't say twas dirty; I didn't say 'twa'n't clean. I shouldn't have said anything about yer soup at all, if that linen-jacket feller hadn't poked a bill for the dinner in my face afore I begun to eat. I sha'n't pay in advance. He had more'n forty things charged on it,—more'n I could eat in tew fortnights. Had a lot of wine charged, when I belong to the Sons. What I hev, I'll pay for when the work's done. This house was recommended to me for fus-rate tavern; but that's purty nigh onto swindlin'."

"My dear sir," replied the superintendent, smiling at the ludicrous affair, "that is only our bill of fare, designed simply to indicate what dishes may be called for. Our prices for dinner are uniform."

"The deuce you say!" exclaimed the Yankee. "Well, the fact is, I didn't mean anything agin yer soup, What I was a goin' ter say is this, that the soup wasn't so clean as I hev seen; for yer see when I was travellin' in Pennsylvania, they had some soup at one tavern so clean, that if yer should dip a white cambric hankerchief into it, 'twouldn't grease it."

The superintendent and the "linen-jacket fellers" did not stay long after this, but made their exit, helped on by uproarious laughter from the neighboring tables.

LICE ON STOCK.—Caleb Canfield, of Livingston County, Michigan, writes the Rural, that he has no such thing about him as lice on cattle, horses, hogs, hens, geese, neither ticks on sheep. His remedy is sulphur. To an ox, or cow, or hen, he gives a teaspoonful in their feed; to sheep less. He puts it in the coops of the fowls in small lumps. Feeds it once a month in winter, but not in summer, except to hogs. He gives his horned cattle and horses a spoonful of pulverized saltpeter in the month of March or April, and again, without fail, when he turns them out to grass. He also feeds his cattle and horses about a pint of flaxseed once a month in winter.

Our Flag Forever.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag, the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

To our Patrons.—Candidates for Office

It is important to the people that the claims of candidates for office should be known before the election of borough and township delegates in August next. That their claims may be made public we throw open our columns to the friends of all, free of charge.

WANT JUSTICE DONE.—The "sympathizing" friends of Jeff. Davis met in New York on Monday, July 31, to devise means for a fair and full defense of Jeff. Davis and his associates, so that whatever happens, justice may be done. We have no doubt their idea of justice extends so far as to let the chief of the rebellion instigators go scott free. Time, which is getting mysteriously lengthy, will reveal how the law looks at the subject.

Delegate Elections.

The Union men of Huntingdon county are requested to meet at the usual places of holding elections, in the several Boroughs and Townships of the county, on Saturday, the 12th day of August next, and elect two delegates from each township and borough to meet in Convention, at Huntingdon on Tuesday, the 14th day of August next, to nominate candidates for the several offices of the county. The polls will be open in the townships from 5 to 7 o'clock, and in the boroughs from 7 to 9 o'clock.

AFFAIRS IN FLORIDA AND GEORGIA.—The Savannah Herald's correspondent details a tour to Darien, Brunswick and St. Mary's, Georgia, and Fernandina, Jacksonville, Picolata and Pilatka, Florida. At each place he found the people had suffered much from the war, and but little evidence on their part of efforts at making repairs upon their much damaged and badly battered towns. People were scarce, and money more so. Darien is a mass of ruins. At Brunswick there was no business, and of people only a few soldiers, "Crackers" from the back woods and 'lolling' negroes. The same was the case at St. Mary's at Fernandina, Jacksonville, Picolata and Pilatka; but the interior of Florida is much less injured than the places on the sea coast, and it is said there is much more bacon, molasses, sugar, &c., in the State than for a number of years.

AFFAIRS IN TEXAS.—Advices from Texas do not represent the condition of society to have been much improved, the bands of lawless men who infest the country being still able to avoid the law. It appears that when the rebel army in that State broke up, only about half returned to their homes. Of the other half a part made the best of their way to where they learned government property was stored, and appropriated and divided this and whatever other property near by they could lay their hands on. Finally the remainder of the army scattered over the country in small bands, committing all kinds of outrages, of which robbery was the mildest. It is such men as these that our forces have to encounter, and it is to be hoped that they will make short work of them. There is no doubt that the Federal soldiers will be welcomed and assisted by the great mass of the people who have suffered from these brigands.

The National Debt and Finances.

CANDIDATES.

Captain H. J. Smith.

The undersigned having been acquainted with the gentleman whose name heads this article, from his boyhood, and having learned that an attempt has been made to prejudice his claims to a nomination for Treasurer by alleging that he was not a citizen of this county, beg leave to correct an error which might do him an injury.

Capt. Smith was born in that part of Huntingdon County, which afterwards became Blair. About the year 1849, he came to reside with his friends in Walker township, and resided there until 1858, when he left temporarily, and went to Lock Haven, where he was engaged in business until the spring of 1861, when he returned to McConnelstown, and soon after enlisted as a private in Co. C, 53d Regt. P. V., and rose to the rank of Captain on his own merits alone.

No one has a better record as a soldier, than Captain Smith. He is as modest and manly as he is brave. And feeling as we do an honest pride in his character and claims, we intend to stand by him, as he stood by his country.

Declination.

MEADOW GAP, Aug. 3, 1865.

Editor of the Globe:—

DEAR SIR.—I notice in your issue of last week, my name as a candidate for County Treasurer. I never authorized any one to insert my name, nor have I any intention of becoming a candidate for that office. By giving this an insertion in your next issue, you will much oblige,

Yours &c.,
EPHRAIM BAKER.

Letter from the West.

MONMOUTH, Ills., Aug. 1, 1865.

FRIEND LEWIS:—Thinking a line from an old friend might be acceptable to you, and through you to your readers, I have concluded to write you a short epistle this morning.

We are having fine weather. No rain here since last Thursday, the 27th ult.; up to that time, for nearly two weeks the weather had been wet, making it very unfavorable for our farmers; but if the present fair weather continues, the damage to small grain though heavy will not be so much as was anticipated. This season, according to many of our weather-wise men, was to be the wet season, and opened very well for that in April, but through May was decidedly dry; June was very favorable for growing crops here, but July was too wet for good harvesting. But on the whole the season has fell far short of '44, '51 and '58, in the way of wet seasons—of the two latter I can speak from experience; the former, old settlers say fully equalled either of the others. Had this wet spell not come just in harvest and haying season, it would not have been particularly noticed.

Well, this "cruel war" is about over and the brave boys who came at their country's call are returning again to their homes in peace. Thank God for it. It is a time hoped for and devoutly prayed for by many a devoted wife, mother and friend at home. Yes, the war is over, the rebellion is conquered, the country is saved. All honor to the brave boys who conquered a peace. But what shall we say of the memory of those who return not? Those who died that our country might live. I am glad to see an effort making in old Huntingdon county to put up a suitable monument in memory of the gallant dead. I hope they will succeed. A similar movement is on foot to put up a monument in our county. I trust that in every county, in every township, and in every graveyard in the county where sleep the remains of a single soldier of the Union Army, suitable monuments may be erected that our children's children to the latest generation may learn to revere the memory of those gallant men.

I am also pleased to see by the Globe a disposition to honor the living by electing them to places of trust and profit; of course discrimination will be necessary. There are those who made good soldiers who would not make good civil officers. But with the great mass of returned soldiers to choose from certainly good men and true can be found. Of course the public have a right to choose their officers from all classes and should take none but those who are honest and capable; but other things being equal the returned soldier will of course be entitled to the preference.

In our State we have nothing to elect this season but a few county officers—that of County Judge, County Clerk, Treasurer and School Commissioner. Three of the present incumbents have decided to stand out of the way whether from fear of or favor to the soldiers, I cannot just say; but I hope their places will all be filled by "true blues." The other, the County Clerk, has allowed his name to be announced as a candidate; he is a very good man, was physically unable to stand service, and may get the nomination again. He keeps a one-legged soldier as a deputy, a very good one, all that may save him—nothing else could.

But I must close. Some of our old time democratic friends took very lovingly to our President about the time he commuted the sentence of the Chicago and Indianapolis conspirators, but since he let Mrs. Suratt, that "innocent, pious woman," be hanged, they are not quite so loving. I hope he will neither be coaxed or flattered from doing his duty. He has great responsibilities upon him, and I hope the people will sustain him in all proper measures to bring order out of chaos that exists in the late rebellious States. Time, patience and perseverance, are all needed before we can expect everything to be adjusted to the new order of things. But, after all Providence has led us through, can we doubt his ability in the future? I think not.s,

Your &c., P. J.

The Richmond Election.

The following is the order of Gen. Turner, which has been briefly alluded to by telegraph, annulling the recent municipal election in Richmond:—

"Headquarters, District of Henrico, Richmond, Va., July 28, '65.

"Whereas satisfactory evidence has been furnished at these headquarters that, at the election held in the city of Richmond on the 25th instant, for municipal officers, voters were excluded on the ground of having lost their residence by reason of their absence as soldiers in the United States army during the rebellion, when no such ground was taken as against soldiers absent in the rebel army; and whereas, with but few exceptions, all of the officers elected at said municipal election have been prominent and conspicuous in inaugurating and sustaining the rebellion; and whereas the issue was distinctly made and openly avowed at said election as between those men who had aided and abetted in the war against the United States authority and those who had with their lives defended the flag of our country;

"Therefore, justice to the thousands who have fallen on the battle field or by disease in their efforts to put down this rebellion, and to those who are now returning to their homes in this district, after four years of suffering, toil, privations and dangers incurred in fighting treason, demands that these persons who were so lately contributing all their efforts to sustain treason and overthrow this government should not be installed into office and intrusted with power.

Hence it is hereby declared that the United States military authorities of this city will regard the said municipal elections held in this city on the 25th instant as null and void, excepting only the election of the clerk of the Hustings Court; and each and every person elected to office, excepting said clerk of the Hustings Court, is prohibited from exercising the duties appertaining thereto.

"By command of
"Brevet Maj. Gen. TURNER,
"E LEWIS MOORE, Assistant Adjutant General."

AN ATROCIOUS CASE.—A Washington correspondent of the Pittsburgh Commercial records the following incident:—"An atrocious case, illustrative of slave holding barbarism was told by a crippled negro who appeared at the office of the Freedmen's Bureau to-day asking relief. This colored man said he was formerly free and working for wages in Maryland, across the eastern branch. He went South in 1857, with a Dr. Lee, for whom he had been working, persuaded by spacious promises of higher pay, going first to Athens, Georgia, and afterwards to Knoxville, Tennessee, where Dr. Lee for a time kept the Knoxville Hotel, and subsequently removing to Jonesboro. Receiving wages at first he was at last held and treated as a slave.

In the winter of 1864, Dr. Lee hired him out to the rebel post quartermaster at Jonesboro. After remaining eight or ten months he attempted to escape to the lines of the national forces. He got twenty miles away, but was caught and taken back, when this rebel quartermaster took him to surgeon Williams in charge of the rebel hospital there, and ordered him to cut off his feet and hands to prevent, as he said, his running away again. The doctor partially complied, amputating both legs just above the ankle. He left the stumps undressed over night, but finding him alive next day, said: "What, you d—n nigger, are you alive yet? I intend to kill you." He then had him placed in an ambulance and taken to the hut of an old colored man, where he remained until our troops occupied the place.

This colored man brings vouchers from white people corroborative of his statement, which are believed by the officers of the bureau.

THE BRILLIANT FUTURE AS SEEN FROM THE DRY TORTUGAS.—If we can receive the statement of the Herald correspondent as truth, the conspirators who have gone to the Dry Tortugas must be about having an extremely brilliant future. The account given of the paths of life laid out for each of the condemned appears to be of the "flowery beds of ease" order. Mudd is to be allowed to practise and act as nurse, and will doubtless be allowed liberty and privileges, and we may yet expect to hear of this most philanthropic of men aiding the escape of other criminals, tending the sick, and setting broken limbs. He will be able to follow out his penchant for making splinters and healing fractures, and although it may suggest to him the cause of his sea side residence, yet still it will enable him to practise his profession and have something to do. Arnold, we are told, will be a clerk, and will derive "profit," whether pecuniary or otherwise we are not informed, probably otherwise. Spangler is to be a carpenter once more, and O'Laughlin a "retired hammer," Thus are this famous quartette comfortably disposed of, and we earnestly hope that even the New York Herald will cease to descant on their diet and their wages They are safely placed away for life, and let them be left in their living graves. They have committed their crime, let them expiate it unnoticed. Requiescat in pace, and let us hear of them no more.

IF THERE was any part of the South that, more than another, should have been animated by a feeling of gratitude to the Government, after the suppression of the rebellion, it was the city of Richmond. Its stern and protracted resistance to our troops must have inspired its inhabitants with a natural fear that our army of occupation would destroy the citadel they had so long besieged. But our soldiers chivalrously and magnanimously saved it from the devouring flames that had been kindled by the retreating Confederate army. Our quartermasters furnished food to thousands of its famishing families. Many of its prominent citizens, of the excepted classes of the Amnesty Proclamation, have been pardoned. The people have been treated in the most generous and lenient manner. The result of their recent election indicates that they deem new insults and provocations the only return they are capable of making for the kindness of their conquerors.

NEWS SUMMARY.

☞The exact amount received from Internal Revenue, for the month of July, was $21,693,470 75.

☞A man supposed to be John H. Surratt passed through Harrisburg, heavily ironed on Tuesday last, en-route to Washington. It is said he was captured in Texas.

☞A Washington correspondent in the Chicago Tribune says the available funds in the National Treasury for the next six months will exceed the demands nearly $100,000,000.

☞During the present month over one hundred and sixty-five thousand dollars of prize money was disbursed by the Treasury Department. The number of claims was twelve hundred and sixty-four.

☞The Boston Gazette thinks that when De Sauty announces that the Atlantic Telegraph Cable is working, the first message which the President will send to England will probably be "Are you ready to settle that little claim for the Alabama?"

☞A gentleman who has just returned from a tour through the counties of Stafford, Spottsylvania, and Orange, in Virginia, reports that he found the inhabitants generally in a very destitute condition, with no money, and very little if anything aside from the present crops.

☞Only about 1,500 deserters from the draft availed themselves of the pardon offered them in the late President Lincoln's proclamation. The thousands of others still absent are liable to arrest wherever found in this country, and subject to punishment for the offence.

☞It is suggested in the Harrisburg Telegraph that the Soldiers' Orphans who are admitted into the State Schools provided for them specially, be passed free by the several Railroad Companies in going home and returning during vacations. We second the motion. Every poor crippled soldier, should be treated to a similar courtesy.

☞North Carolina is shipping to North a large amount of copper, iron, lead, etc., mined in that State. The negroes are, it is said accumulating small fortunes working the gold and silver mines. The aristocracy to the State, it is reported, are becoming very bitter in their views against all Union men.

☞From Texas we learn that the Western part of that State is infested with robbers and jayhawkers. Seven railroads are at present in running order. The chief of the Cherokee nation says that his people are famishing for bread, and if they do not get it an outbreak will be the result. A Gonzales paper says that the liberation of the slaves has proved advantageous to the people.

☞The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has decided that where a person keeps a horse, the use of which is necessary to the prosecution of his business, the expense of keeping the horse, including feed, etc., may be deducted from his income. When the horse is used, partly for a business producing income and partly for pleasure, so much of the expense for keeping him as is clearly referable to productive labor may be deducted.

☞We have further accounts of Indian outrages in the South Platte region. An emigrant party was attacked on Saturday, and two men killed and scalped. A camp of soldiers was also attacked and driven back on the same day, three or four men wounded, the telegraph cut, and the telegraph operator driven away. Parties of Indians are prowling about, and more serious trouble is anticipated. Senator Doolittle and his Congressional party have had a narrow escape.

☞A despatch dated Julesburg, Colorado territory, July 31, 1865, says:—A party of thirty Indians attacked an emigrant train, forty miles west of here on Saturday, and killed two men, and captured one wagon. On the same day, a large party of Indians surprised a camp of twenty-six soldiers, a few miles north of Valley Station, captured their stock, and drove the men to the Station. War parties of Indians have appeared at several places on the South Platte route lately, and there is no doubt that there is a considerable force of Indians in the vicinity. More troops are on their way here from the East.

☞The Logan Guards, comprising the remnant of Company A, Forty-sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers, returned to their homes at Lewistown, on Saturday. These men have acquitted themselves nobly. This company claims to have been the first body of men to respond to the call of Abraham Lincoln for seventy-five thousand volunteers in 1861, when Pennsylvania sent five hundred men in advance of the other States. This claim is, however, contested by the Ringgold Artillery of Reading. The Ringgold was the first company to arrive at Harrisburg, but the Logan Guards passed them on the way and reached Washington in advance of any other organizaton in the United States.

THE GRAVES AT ANDERSONVILLE.—Miss Clara Barton, who accompanied Captain Moore on his expedition to Andersonville, Ga., to give Christian burial to the prisoners who died there, writes the following note to her uncle, James Barton, of Washington:

ANDERSONVILLE, Ga., July 12, '65.

DEAR UNCLE:—We arrived here on the 13th, and are now in the active prosecution of our labors. Capt. Jas. M. Moore, kindly detailed by General D. H. Rucker to assist me in the performance of our sad, though interesting duties, is now organizing our forces, and preparing the ground for the reception of our heroic dead. Two hundred and seventy six were recovered yesterday from the ground known as outside of the "dead line," or, as it was generally known to the public, outside of a prohibited line, beyond which they had accidentally strayed for the purpose of procuring a little fresh water, or the roots of shrubs or trees, to allay the pangs of thirst and hunger, and for so doing were barbarously murdered. The grounds are all selected for the cemetery, and in a few days I will send you a statement for publication, if the editors of Washington think it worthy of publication in their columns.

Your affectionate niece,
CLARA BARTON.

Meeting in Behalf of Jeff. Davis.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Post publishes a report of proceeding at a private meeting of friends of Jeff. Davis, held in this city on Monday, to devise means for a fair and full defence of Jeff. Davis and his associates, so that whatever happens, justice may be done.

The meeting was held at the rooms of Mr. Carlos Butterfield, who was present. At the suggestion of Peter Butler a committee was appointed to raise funds for the object stated, and to consult with Chas. O'Connor, counsel, and to adopt other necessary measures.

The following persons were named as the committee: Mayor G. Gunther, Carlos Butterfield, Theodore Martin Douglass, and Clancy The Mayor was absent, but sent his regrets and assurances of his hearty co-operation.

Messrs. Surrogate, Tucker and Livingstone, of Mobile, were among those present. Messrs. Culter, Tucker and Livingstone were the principal speakers. They regarded the failure of the rebellion as temporary. The spirit that originated it still lives and by the assistance of their friends at the North it can be made successful in other ways.

Livingstone said Alabama would be represented in Congress by none who were not soul and body in favor of Southern Independence.

That Mrs. Surratt's execution had excited the indignation of the world, and that the Government dared not trust Mr. Davis to a trial. Mr. Livingstone said, any person who regarded the course of the South as treasonable, would be looked upon as a mad man or a fool.

Davis and Clay Meet for the First Time--Changing of Hour of Promenade.

Fortress Monroe, July 29.—Hardly anything is spoken of here save the intense heat, and the military changes which daily occur from the moving of troops to their homes.

Yesterday, however, a little incident transpired which will prove of interest to your readers. Mr. Davis, as you are aware, has been allowed for several days has the privilege of walking on the ramparts. An officer accompanies him, and a guard, armed with muskets, follow some five a ten feet in the rear, A similar indulgence is granted Mr. Clay and under the same restrictions. Care seems to have been taken that they should not be out at the same time, but last evening, probably through inadvertence, they were permitted to be out at the same hour, and during their promenade they met.

It was the first friendly face, save the surgeon's, that either prisoner had seen for months, and the emotion that rushed upon the hearts of both may be imagined. Mr. Clay extended his hand, remarking:

"Though we are not permitted to hold conversation, Mr. Davis, I presume we will not be forbidden to shake hands."

The accompanying officers made no objection, and the two gentlemen clasped hands with a favor and feeling such as rarely attends this familiar courtesy.

Mr. Davis' thin lips quivered, but probably from his desire to observe scrupulously the rules of his confinement, he uttered no word.

To-day a rule was adopted of appointing different hours for the promenade, and Mr. Davis walked alone this morning at six. Mr. Clay will enjoy the same privilege this evening.—Petersburg Index.

OPPOSED TO OATHS.—A correspondent, writing from Richmond, relates an incident as follows:

Talking of oaths reminds me of a local joke which my pen cannot resist recording. A modest young country girl, on applying for rations to one of our relief agents, a few days ago was asked if she had ever taken the oath. "No, indeed, sir," was her terrified reply, "I never swore in all my life."—"But you must take the oath, my good girl," said the agent, "or I cannot give you the rations." "No, indeed I can't, sir," said the girl, "mother always taught me never to swear." The agent mildly persisted, and the maiden as pertinaciously refused all attempts at persuasion, until, overcome at last by the dreadful conflict between necessity and her high sense of moral duty, she stammered out, with downcast lids, "Well, sir, if you will make me do such a horrid, wicked thing,—d—n the Yankees!

A TOUGH SOLDIER.—A young fellow of Worcester, Massachusetts, named E. P. Rockwood, a private in the 57th Massachusetts, who was in the battle of Cold Harbor, in June, 1864, had his jaw bone fractured by a bullet, which also knocked out some of his teeth; another ball fractured his right shoulder blade and lodged somewhere beneath it; and a third went through his abdomen. His comrades then hid him in a hole where his body and head were covered from the enemy; but while there he got another bullet through the calf of his leg, another dug a groove through one shin, another cut an instep, and another cut off one of his toes. He lay in the hole all day and then was taken prisoner and starved for several months. Now he is at home well, and not lame.

THE FREEDMEN.—The Secretary of War has ordered that, "to secure equal justice and the same personal liberty to the freedmen as to other citizens and inhabitants, all orders issued by post, district or other commanders adopting any system of passes for or subjecting them to restraints or punishments not imposed on other classes are declared void." Neither whites nor blacks will be retained from seeking employment elsewhere, when they cannot obtain it at a just compensation at their homes, and when not bound by voluntary agreements; nor will they be hindered from traveling from place to place on proper and legitimate business.

Cure for a Felon.

As soon as the part begins to swell, get the tincture of lobelia and wrap the part affected with cloth saturated thoroughly with the tincture, and the felon is dead. An old physician says he has known this to cure in scores of cases, and it never fails if applied in season.

We clipped the above from an exchange. It may be good and may not; nevertheless, if we had a felon on our finger, we would give it a trial.

Scratchings.

—A camp meeting is to commence at Bloody Run on the 19th of August.

—Court commences here next Monday. We expect to see many friends in town on important business.

—Col. Thomas A. Scott and lady returned on Friday last from a vacation at Bedford Springs.

—Saturday next the township and borough elections for Union delegates will be held, and on Tuesday the 15th day of August next the delegate convention will be held in this place.

—Nicholas Cresswell, Chairman of the Democratic County Committee, has issued a call for a Delegate Convention at this place, on Wednesday, August 16th, "for the purpose of taking such action as shall be deemed best for the party."

—Watermelons, cantelopes, peaches, green corn and tomatoes have made their appearance in this place. Corn sold at 25 cents ₰ dozen ears; cantelopes, from 15 to 40 cents. The prices of these and other fruit decreases as the supply increases.

—Strenuous endeavors are being made by some of our young men to effect the organization of a brass band. What they principally want is to have extended to them the liberality of our citizens, and we suppose they will soon learn the rest, in the way of becoming good musical "blowers."

—We are pleased to see that a meeting of the Agricultural Society of this county to be held on Tuesday evening in August court week, will have under consideration the subject of a County Fair this fall. Of course, we will have one, as the farmers and the people generally, we think, so desire.

—The office of the Ohio Oil Basin Company on the corner of Hill and Bath streets, and in the centre of the Diamond, has been tastefully fitted up, and the arrangements are so far completed as to shortly admit of occupation. We hope the company as much success in the business as some of their lucky brethren around us.

—The friends of the soldiers and those who desire to keep in lasting memory the record of our fallen patriots in the past struggle, will not forget that a meeting will be held in this place next Monday, the 14th day of August, for the purpose of organizing an association to erect a monument to those who fell, in defense of liberty, during the late rebellion. We refer our readers again to the call of the chairman of the Soldiers' Monument committee.

—The board walk in new town has been finished, and we now expect to see perambulators taking advantage of the opportunities afforded for a pleasant walk on a substantial platform.—It was necessary that this board walk should be refitted at this time, as the probabilities are, before many years we will have a brisk town in that neighborhood, and the walk will furnish the means of ingress and ogress to the modern villa.

Our Public Roads.

We concur in the following opinion of our cotemporary, the Herald, of Shirleysburg, on the subject of our public roads. The fact is too apparent that our roads in certain sections are miserable, and now that a way is suggested to remedy the evil, we hope to see it put in practice. The article in the Herald refers to the condition of the road between Mt. Union and Shade Gap, and in conclusion makes this suggestion:

"In this connection we declare it our long matured and settled conviction that the present road laws are illy adapted for making and repairing public roads; and so long as the law remains as it is, better roads than we now have need hardly be expected. Let a money tax be enforced, and one or more judicious and skillful Road Commissioners be appointed to employ steady laborers on the roads, at the right seasons and proper places, and with tools, suited to their needs, and we venture the prediction that in three years our roads will no longer be a reproach and stigma, as they now are, but will be ten fold better than under the present system, with less than one-half the amount now expended under the farcical work proviso, and Supervisors void of skill and judgment in the art of making roads, as is so lamentably the case under the present law."

Soldiers' Families.

At the last meeting of the Board of Relief, they passed a resolution that they would not grant any orders excepting to those families, whose support has been killed or died in the service, and have not yet received a pension, or in cases of extreme necessity where the support of a family is still in the service or in a hospital and has not been paid.

The World Moves.

The wonders accomplished by the soldiers of the Union, in the recent war—the rapid strides in Science and Art during the past four years,—demonstrate conclusively the truth of the above adage.

But in no branch of Science or Art has so much progress been made as in that department of social and political economy, to which belongs the subject of "Life Insurance"—a subject that a few years ago was comparatively unknown, is now sought after by all classes, not only as the most economical investment of a portion of one's income, but the most reliable and only sure dependence when the husband, father or friend is stricken down by the hand of death.

The tables upon which the various rates of premium are based, are the results of the labors of some of the ablest mathematicians the world has produced—the actuaries of the principal life insurance companies—and who are constantly employed in making calculations, outrank in this branch of science all other departments.

Amongst those engaged in disseminating a knowledge of these facts, and the general utility and advantages of Life Insurance over every other species of saving, we take pleasure in referring to our friend Wm. J. Geissinger, Esq., who is acting for the North America, of New York. He is thoroughly booked up on the subject, and his company is one of the very best in the land. It also possesses some peculiar features—advantages of considerable importance to the insured—which belong to no other institution. We advise our friends everywhere to see him, and by all means give him a patient hearing.

The Prevailing Fashion.

Some irreverent editor down east expresses himself on the prevailing fashion in head gear in this wise:

"We are about to say a few words which we beg our lady friends not to read. It is not intended for them all. "Twenty years ago!" There is music in those words. Twenty years ago, we saw sights that would look queer now. Possibly it may have been an illusion incident to tangled vision. Our good mothers and grandmothers used to fold together two corners of a bandana handkerchief, and, placing it on their heads, tie the other two corners under the chin. It made a warm, substantial covering for the head at an expense of about eighteen pence. The same fashion prevails to-day—only there's a slight difference. We saw yesterday a little three cornered 'love of a' something that protected the lady's head neither from rain, heat nor cold. It was charming—only cost eighteen dollars! A wad of somebody's else hair depended from the rear by a small pike pole, with a bombshell on either end. Modesty remarked that she had named this modern bomb proof a 'waterfall!'"

Good Templars.

This organization at this place held their regular meeting on Tuesday evening last, when the following persons were installed into offices:

W. C. T.—David Black.
W. V. T.—Miss Cornelia Wiestling.
P. W. C. T.—James R. Simpson.

W. R. H. S.—Miss Mollie Watson.
W. L. H. S.—De Witt Zeigler.

The Society is rapidly increasing in numbers, there being about eighty members now on the roll.

There is to be a meeting of representatives of the lodges throughout this district, at this place, August 17th.

Agricultural Society.

A regular meeting of the Huntingdon County Agricultural Society will be held in the Court House on Tuesday evening of the first week of the coming August Court (15th inst.) The propriety of holding a County Fair during the coming fall will be taken into consideration, and other business of importance to the society transacted

It is desirable and important that there be as full an attendance as possible of the officers of the Association, as well as of the public generally.

Graffus Miller, Pres't.
Huntingdon, Aug. 1, 1865.

Horse Stolen.

Mr. Richard Silverthorn, of Tell township, Huntingdon co., purchased a horse (No. 17) at the goverment sale on Wednesday of last week, and left him standing in a shed connected with the Patterson House. Between the hours of 2 and 4 P. M., the animal was taken away, and not until Monday, the 31st ult., did he receive any intelligence of the stolen property. The horse was ridden by a person dressed partly in soldier clothes to the premises of Mr. Spigelmayer, in Slim valley, where he was left and subsequently found.—Mifflin Democrat.

Promoted.—Major Wm. G. Mitchell, of Lewistown, has been promoted brevet Brigadier General, and appointed Assistant Inspector General upon Maj. Gen. Hancock's staff.——Col. J. Ard Matthews of the same place, has been promoted a Brigadier General of Volunteers by brevet, the rank to date from April 2, 1865.

President Elected.—Hon. John Cessna, of Bedford, has been elected as President of the Board of Trustees of Franklin and Marshall College, in lieu of James Buchanan, resigned.

At Bedford.—Hon. Thaddeus Stevens has been stopping at the Bedford Springs for the last week. He appears to be enjoying the gayety and sociability of the crowded resort to great advantage.

Poisoned.—A little daughter of Danl. Kane, of Cambria city, took from the cupboard a bottle of laudanum, from which she drank enough to cause her death in a short time.

Accident.—A man in the employ of John Alexander, Esq., about three miles above Shirleysburg, had his ankle severely cut with a mower in operation, on Thursday. His name is Lamey, and his case is deemed critical.

Victimized.—Some of the citizens of Ebensburg, Cambria county, have been the victims of a "Jeremy Diddler," named Charles Day, to the amount of about $1,500. Day represented himself as a Canadian stock dealer, and in various ways ingratiated himself into the good opinion of his victims.

Mrs. Price survived the effects of the chloroform.

Fatal Railroad Accident.—On Saturday afternoon a veteran soldier, by the name of Baker, of the 10th Ohio Regiment, was struck on the back of the head and neck by a bridge on the Northern Central Railroad, between York and Harrisburg. He was knocked insensible and remained unconscious until his death, which took place in Patterson, Juniata county, on Sunday evening. He was buried in the Presbyterian cemetery at that place.

Murder at Bedford.—An enrolling officer, named Crouse, was murdered at Bedford, on the morning of August 2, by a deserter named Reed, who had but recently returned from Canada.—Some difficulty occurred, a few days ago, between the parties, and this morning they met, on the streets, when Reed drew a revolver. Crouse attempted to pick up a stone to defend himself, when Reed fired—the ball taking effect in the side of Crouse, passing through the heart, and killing him almost instantly. Reed was a notorious Copperhead, and in this murder simply obeyed the teachings of Bedford Copperheadism.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

TO THE LADIES.—Do you really intend to cease wearing the beautiful styles now so prevalent, or dress less elegantly, because the rebel Jeff. Davis, was captured in Fashionable Female attire? One moment's calm reflection will surely serve to change your rash resolve. The angels had too much good sense to lay aside their pure chaste robes of white, because they had for a time served to hide the deformities of that Prince of Rebels, the Devil. Can you err in following the example of Angels? Then having made up your minds that you will continue to dress tastefully regardless of rebelacts, do not forget to call at the store of the subscribers, who will be happy at all times to furnish you with such articles of dress as you may desire. Urge your fathers, husbands, brothers, neighbors and children to visit the same store. They can here be suited in good articles of Boots, Shoes, Clothing Material, Hats, Caps, Queensware and a general assortment of Groceries, on as reasonable terms as at any House in town. Store on South east corner of the Diamond, Huntingdon, Pa.

A REMEDY FOR THE PILES.—It is a blessing to the suffering to know that we have an effectual cure for this troublesome disease. Mr. J. P. Hazarde, of 164 Second street, Cincinnati, O., takes great pleasure in informing all who are suffering with piles that he used a small quantity of Dr. Strickland's Pile-Remedy, and it effected a permanent cure. This seems to be the case with all who make use of this splendid preparation. It is manufactured at No. 6 East Fourth street, Cincinati, O., and sold by all Druggists

$1000 REWARD will be paid for any medicine that excels this for the following diseases:

Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Spinal Affections, Contracted Joints, Cholic Pains, Pains in Side or Back, Toothache, Headache, Sprains, Sore Throat, Cuts, Bruises, Burns, and all Diseases of the Muscles, Skin and Glands.

This is an Internal and External Medicine, composed of Roots, Herbs and Barks such as our forefathers used.—There is a bountiful supply on the earth to cure all complaints, if we only knew what they were. This has been a subject for constant study with the Medical Faculty for a great many years, to find out the kinds best adapted to the above complaints—how to put them together, and what portions to use.

This wonderful remedy needs no recommendation save the results which invariably follow its application.

☞This popular remedy is fast coming into use from the fact that it gives good satisfaction.

☞PHYSICIANS are invited to test its efficacy in all cases of Rheumatism, Affections of the Spinal Column, and all Diseases of the Skin, Muscles and Glands. It has been used in thousands of instances under the personal supervision of the Inventors, and has never disappointed their expectations. All we ask for it is a trial—experimental proof—not the testimony of the men of straw, are the vouchers we desire to present to the public.

It would be well for many now lying in beds of torture, if these facts could reach their sick chambers. It is more important to them than to the inventors that this should be the case. "Truth is mighty and must prevail."

☞Keep it in your family, for sickness comes when you least expect it.

U. S. 7-30 LOAN.

THIRD SERIES,

By authority of the Secretary of the Treasury, the undersigned, the General Subscription Agent for the sale of United States Securities, offers to the public the third series of Treasury Notes, bearing seven and three-tenths per cent. interest per annum, known as the 7.30 LOAN.

These notes are issued under date of July 15, 1865, and are payable three years from that date in currency, or are convertible at the option of the holder into

U. S. 5-20 SIX PER CENT. GOLD. BEARING BONDS.

These Bonds are now worth a handsome premium, and are exempt, as are all the Government Bonds, from State County, and Municipal taxation, which adds from one to three per cent. per annum to their value, according to the rate levied upon other property. The interest is payable semi-annually by coupons attached to each note, which may be cut off and sold to any bank or banker.

The interest at 7.30 per cent, amounts to

One cent per day on a			$50 note.
Two cents	"	"	$100 "
Ten	"	"	$500 "
20	"	"	$1000 "
$1	"	"	$5000 "

Notes of all the denominations named will be promptly furnished upon receipt of subscriptions.

The Notes of the Third Series are precisely similar in form and privileges to the Seven-Thirties already sold, except that the Government reserves to itself the option of paying interest in gold coin at 6 per cent., instead of 7 3-10ths in currency. Subscribers will deduct the interest in currency up to July 15th, at the time when they subscribe.

The delivery of the notes of this third series of the Seven-thirties will commence on the 1st of June, and will be made promptly and continuously after that date.

The slight change made in the conditions of this THIRD SERIES affects only the matter of interest. The payment in gold, if made, will be equivalent to the currency interest of the higher rate.

The return to specie payments, in the event of which only will the option to pay interest in Gold be availed of, would so reduce and equalize prices that purchases made with six per cent. in gold would be fully equal to those made with seven and three tenths per cent. in currency. This is

THE ONLY LOAN IN MARKET

Now offered by the Government, and its superior advantages make it the

Great Popular Loan of the People

Less than $230,000,000 of the Loan authorized by the last Congress are now on the market. This amount, at the rate at which it is being absorbed, will all be subscribed for within sixty days, when the notes will undoubtedly command a premium; as has uniformly been the case on closing the subscriptions to other Loans.

In order that citizens of every town and section of the country may be afforded facilities for taking the loan the National Banks, State Bank, and Private Bankers, throughout the country, have generally agreed to receive subscriptions at par. Subscribers will select their own agents, in whom they have confidence, and who only are to be responsible for the delivery of the notes for which they receive orders

PIANOS & MELODIANS FOR SALE

NO CABINET ORGANS.

Not a Sole Agent.

PROFESSOR HUGH COYLE offers for sale the celebrated PIANOS of STECK & CO., New York, which he considers cannot be surpassed in touch or tonability by any instrument in the market.

Notwithstanding Steinway & Co's. instruments are considered superior by certain agents, the Professor can only pronounce them good, for there is an uncertainty in the tone which he will not recommend. As Steck is the only manufacturer that gives a PRINTED GUARANTEE for the durability of his instrument, I have no hesitation in recommending the same.

Prof. Coyle is a judge, from the fact that he has had twenty years experience in teaching music, which of itself qualifies him to recommend any instrument, but Steck's in particular.

The community can use their discretion in purchasing instruments, but Professor Coyle feels himself a judge, and notwithstanding all fictitious advertisements, he would recommend Steck & Co's. in preference to all others. PROF. H. COYLE.

THE HIGH PRICES RULING FOR Cotton Goods has compelled public attention to be more especially directed to the culture of Flax. It can be made by some attention, one of the most valuable products a farmer can produce; an acre readily producing 50 to 60 Dollars worth of fibre and seed. Great care should be taken by growers have their Flax spread very thin when rolling; when watered sufficiently on one side, it should be turned, and subject to exposure until all the stalks get a grey color, and the lint readily separates from the wood by a gentle rub.

It should on a very dry day be tied in bundles, and is then ready for the mill. As a general thing too much seed is sown on an acre. Unless the ground is very rich one Bushel per acre is sufficient. If the ground is very strong one and one fourth bushel is ample.

SHADE TREES,
GRAPE VINES,
PLANTS, &C.,

At the nurseries of Taylor & Cremer

Who offer their stock of well grown and thrifty TREES, VINES, PLANTS, &c., at their old prices. The expense of grafting and planting this stock having been incurred before the outbreak of the rebellion when the price of labor was low, they can afford to sell these Trees at 50 per cent. less than they can sell the same kind of trees next year. While other Nurserymen have raised their prices about 66 per cent., these still sell at the old rates this year; that is to say—Apple Trees, $15, $18, and $20 per hundred, according to size, &c. Standard Pear 50 to 75 cents each. Dwarf Pear, 50 to 75 cents each, and $30 to $40 per hundred. Plum and Apricot, at 40 to 50 cents each. Also, Peach, Cherry, Quince and other trees; Grape Vines, Lawton Blackberry, Raspberry, and Strawberry plants, Dahlia roots, and Shade and Ornamental Trees—all at the old rates.

Money invested in fruit trees is sure to yield a good return. Now is your time to order trees.
